RATE BOOST IS DENIED RAILROAD

President Is Silent—He Is Now Studying Way to Improve Bonds

NOW COMES NEW PLAN

List of Commodities Is Given Increase, However

By J. H. JENKINS.

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Flatly denied permission to raise freight rates 15 per cent, America's railways have before them new and untried Interstate Commerce Commission proposal for pooling monies derived from surcharges on freight bills to aid the less prosperous lines.

The railroads were left with no apparent alternative but to accept the plan. They were told their 15 per cent proposal would be harmful to themselves. Their executives were directed to submit a plan for handling the pool by December 1 and were informed it could not operate longer than March 31, 1933.

The spectacular effort of the carriers, as a whole, was brought to a startling conclusion with announcement late yesterday of the commission proposal. Railroad men had scoffed at the plan when shippers suggested it at hearings as unworkable. The commission, however, asserted today it was workable.

At the same time the commission outlined the commodities on which it would permit surcharges and the amount of those surcharges. They were limited to a maximum of 10 per cent. Some commodities, including coal, ores of all kinds and forest products were limited to 5 per cent; some others to 3 per cent and still others to one and two cents a 100 pounds.

Major farm products—including wheat, corn, cotton, livestock and most fresh fruits—are not to be levied against further.

The commission disclaimed any responsibility for keeping the other state laws for investment purposes.

"We do not find that we are justified on this record to attempt," it said, "by a rate increase, to protect the margin of one and one-half times fixed charges set by the New York law. To provide so far (Continued On Page Six.)"

ROW IN MANCHURIA TAKES A NEW TURN

U. S. SPOKESMEN ACCUSED OF DOUBLE CROSSING AS THEY TALK WITH JAPANESE

Geneva, Oct. 21.—(AP)—There was a distinct note of pessimism this evening among persons in a position to know the trend of debate regarding Manchuria in the League of Nations council, and the belief was widespread that the United States, represented by Prentiss B. Gilbert, was not backing up the league's program of pacification.

Reports of conversations at Washington between Secretary of State Stimson and Katsuki Dohchi, the Japanese ambassador, appeared to have aroused fears that the United States was playing a lone hand and short-circuiting the council's efforts to induce withdrawal of Japanese troops from Manchuria.

At the same time Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's representative on the council, remained adamant in his refusal to promise recall of Japanese troops without certain which it is believed China is unwilling to undertake.

COAL CONFERENCE IS NOW UNDER WAY

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A conference designed to help pull the bituminous coal industry out of "shoal water" began today with about 50 operators attending.

The spectre of overproduction with consequent losses to operators and hardships to labor, hung over the conference, and although none of the operators would predict the matters to be discussed it was felt they would revolve about the problem of keeping down output to something like the present level of consumption.

Woman Hunted For Trunk Murders Eludes Police; Jealousy, Narcotics Or Liquor Possible Motives; Killer's Mind Was Deranged, Police Believe Now

MRS. AGNES LEROY

The Central Press Association telephoto, lower right, shows the trunks in which the mutilated and dismembered bodies of Mrs. Judd's former room mates were found. Blood dripping from them led to the discovery of their gruesome contents.

Moving of Trunks Is Described By Transfer Agent

"TERRIBLY HEAVY" HE SAYS, ALL LIGHTS IN APARTMENT KEPT TURNED OUT

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Details of the transfer of a "terribly heavy" trunk for Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd have been related by Richard M. Swartz to assist in solution of the murder of Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Miss Agnes Leroy.

Swartz, a truck driver for a transfer company, told investigators of the district attorney's office he was called the night of October 17 to the Le Roi-Samuelson apartment.

Evasion manifest at the time of the movement of the trunk was added today to the evidence of officers' assert points to Mrs. Judd as the slayer. The victims were not seen alive after 9:35 P. M., October 16.

Swartz said he found the apartment in darkness. At the door was a woman he later identified from a photograph as Mrs. Judd.

"I want this trunk taken to the station," she said.

Swartz stumbled over the threshold as he entered.

"I'm sorry," he said Mrs. Judd told him. "I'm going away and (Continued on Page Three.)"

CREDIT POOL NO AID TO SMALLER BANKS

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Representative Bowman, Republican, West Virginia, today condemned the National Credit Corporation for its failure to plan "some method of relieving small community banks of the nation which have recently been closed by heavy withdrawals of deposits."

The plan for operations as outlined by officials does not contemplate any relief for closed solvent banks, he said.

"Many of those institutions closed when they were in good financial condition, and with an opportunity to rediscount notes secured by deeds of trust and mortgages sufficient cash would be obtained for reopening many of them."

TROOPS MOBILIZED TO FORCE FARMERS TO CATTLE TESTING

Des Moines, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Twenty-three additional Iowa National Guard troops, comprising 1,300 men, were ordered to mobilize today and proceed to Burlington to assist in testing cattle for tuberculosis.

Burlington, Ia., Oct. 21.—(AP)—More than six hundred men, women and children gathered today at the farm of their leader with the avowed purpose of preventing administration of the state bovine tuberculosis law in Des Moines county.

Since before dawn farmers arrived at the home of Jake Everstman, president of the county chapter of The Farmers' Protective Association, indicating that an offensive not equalled in three previous battlefronts of the testing war would be started.

W. C. T. U. ENDORSES PEACE MOVEMENTS

Dayton, O., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Petitions circulated by proponents of the world peace movement among members of the Ohio women's Christian Temperance Union, attending the 58th annual state convention here today, were signed and the movement endorsed generally. These petitions are to be presented at the world disarmament conference in Geneva next February.

Business matters held the attention of delegates at the session today.

TAKES NO CHANCES ON A DEPRESSION

Columbus, O., Oct. 21.—(AP)—There's no place like the Columbus workhouse farm in the opinion of William Phillips, of Circleville. He's supposed to return home on parole, but he won't. The food, he said, is good, his bed warm, his fellow-inmates friendly. So he proposes to remain, working off a $750 fine at $5 a week. He has nearly two years more to go.

Workhouse officials don't just know what to do about it.

CUT-THROAT COMPETITION IS CRITICISED BY LABOR SECRETARY--MEANS WAGE CUT

Boston, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor William N. Doak today warned the Associated Industries of Massachusetts against "cut-throat competition and promiscuous wage slashes" which he characterized as both "unsound and unscientific."

"The secretary said he believed it hopeless for complete relief to be brought about until business 'stops trying to get ahead by selling below production costs.'"

"Capital, labor, and management," he said, "are entitled to proper returns for their participation in any productive enterprise. Any system which denies such proper returns to any of the three groups is unsound."

Mr. Doak told the industrialists

JILTED SWEETHEART CONFESSES KILLING

Columbus, O., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Failure to keep a promise of marriage resulted in the fatal shooting of Willis H. Brown, 50, advertising agent, in the home of Mrs. Maude G. Malloy, widow, here yesterday.

Mrs. Malloy told police, officers said, Brown was shot when a revolver she held discharged accidentally as he grabbed her arm. She said she intended to fire into the ceiling to intimidate Brown in the belief he then would say whether or not he would carry out a promise to marry her.

The woman, mother of a 14-year-old son, said she became desperate after she had mortgaged her furniture in preparation for the wedding that failed to materialize.

Brown died instantly.

Contentment is merely the victory of mind over what's the matter.

Two Suspects Nabbed but Each Proves Innocence; Suicide Is Anticipated

Los Angeles, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Winnie Ruth Judd, 26, slender blonde wife of a physician and daughter of a minister, remained at large today despite the efforts of thousands of officers seeking her as the perpetrator of the Phoenix trunk murders.

The motive behind the slayings still was almost as much of a mystery as it was Monday night when the bodies of the victims Mrs. Agnes Leroy, 32, and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, 24, were taken from trunks which Mrs. Judd had shipped here from Phoenix.

"It must be a case of deranged mind—that's as much as we can say at present," said Detective Inspector D. A. Davidson.

Search today was being concentrated in the vicinity of Laguna Beach, artists' colony, 60 miles south of here, following the arrest of a woman hitch hiker near San Bernardino whose description corresponded somewhat with that of Mrs. Judd.

"Hardly expect to find Mrs. Judd alive," declared Inspector Davidson. "It is my opinion she will be found a suicide."

Officers again subjected her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, and her brother, Burton J. McKinnell, to a thorough questioning. Both men had been held as material witnesses, but were released from custody last night.

In the meantime word was awaited by the coroner for the disposition of the bodies of the victims.

The bodies were found in two trunks and a suitcase at the Southern Pacific Railroad station. The body of Miss Samuelson had been dismembered, portions of it being found in one of the trunks and in the suitcase.

Lloyd J. Andrews, county attorney for Maricopa County, Arizona, arrived last night by plane from Phoenix.

"We have considered the woman's probable jealousy of her husband aroused by Mrs. Leroy or Miss Samuelson or both; jealousy between the women themselves over one of the trunks, and the so-called narcotic and liquor angles, but they are all insufficient to prove a motive," said Andrews.

"The principal thing in the case now, as I see it, is that Mrs. Judd is missing, and a motive for the crime lacking. The first and most important thing is to capture Mrs. Judd."

The Rev. H. J. McKinnell, retired minister, from his home in Darlington, Ind., expressed confidence in the innocence of his daughter.

"I am worried, of course, but I know that my daughter could not be involved in such an affair," he said.

BANKERS PRISONERS OF GANG OF BANDITS

Maquon, Ill., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The president and a director of The Maquon State bank were held prisoners all night by two of four robbers who looted the bank of $28,000 today.

The gang appeared at the home of D. S. Hartsook last night and remained with him and Ray Sinkins, while two of them forced Hartsook's son to accompany them to the bank.

"In the matter of relief I dare say this is the best time to stick to old methods. I believe that the time-tried plans for relief in times of distress are more effective in easing the condition of the needy and in making more certain their return to the better circumstances than are other plans which have nothing in view but the immediate use of government funds to solve the poverty problem."

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A broad readjustment of the tangled fabric of world economics, including possible debt revisions and drastic arms reduction, but involving no American guarantee of French political security, is conceived by the American government. The theme of Premier Laval's coming to conferences with President Hoover.

There is no expectation here that any sort of prior commitment, in the form of a Franco-American consultative pact or otherwise, will be discussed when the two statesmen sit down together.

The United States does not consider itself in a position to make promises respecting the security of France or any other European nation. It will be a surprise if Mr. Laval actually suggests such a step.

The understanding here is that the sole basis of the Hoover-Laval conversations will be world economic rehabilitation. France and the United States, holding between them most of the world's gold, stand in a position of special responsibility, and are expected here to approach their decisions with a full realization of that responsibility.

It now is recognized by many officials in Washington that revision of the war debts must come to the front in any such discussion.

All along, the United States has urged the yardstick of "ability."

American Air Speedster Averages 204 M. P. H. in Three Capital Flight

Mexico City, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Major James H. Doolittle, noted American flier, was taking a day off today after having hung up a new mark for air speedsters, by flying from Ottawa, Canada, to Mexico City, by way of Washington, D. C., in 12 hours and 36 minutes, linking three capitals.

Major Doolittle landed his "Baby Horsepower," at Valbuena Field at 3:16 P. M., Mountain Standard Time. He took off from Ottawa at 4:40 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, and made stops at Washington, Birmingham, Ala., and Corpus Christi, Texas.

He calculated his average speed for the flight at 204 miles an hour, and said he was making 235 miles an hour some of the time. The last 225 miles of the flight, from Tampico, were covered in 54 minutes.

He was made a bit "groggy," he said by a leaking exhaust pipe which admitted some carbon monoxide into the cabin of the plane, and this, coupled with the fact that he had not been able to sleep the night before and had eaten nothing all day, made it a "hard trip."

He plans to return to St. Louis tomorrow after a rest.

OHIO PEN CONVICT DENIES ATTENDING GAME IN STADIUM

Portsmouth Broker Saw Vanderbilt Game with Wife, Warden Is Told

Columbus, O., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Investigation of a report that an Ohio Penitentiary trusty attended the Ohio State-Vanderbilt football game here in company with his wife, was started today by Warden P. E. Thomas.

The warden said he had received unofficial reports that R. E. Scott, 50, former Portsmouth stock broker, who began a term for embezzlement on July 8, had attended the game with Mrs. Scott. He said Scott had been assigned as a trusty to the Ohio State Archaeological Society at the State University but had no authority to meet relatives or friends outside the prison.

He said the investigation also would be extended to the activities of other prisoners' trustees assigned to the university.

Scott was received July 8 to serve a term for the embezzlement of $2,000 from the company which he headed. He returned to Portsmouth from the State of Washington where he had been sought for several weeks on grand jury indictments.

Warden Thomas said the explanation was "satisfactory on the surface," but that he intended to make a complete investigation of the reports which also had said that Scott had been dining with his wife at a restaurant near the university.

Pending completion of the investigation the warden said he had allowed Scott his privileges as a trusty and he will continue working at the university.

Scott told the Warden his wife was not in Columbus the day of the Ohio State-Vanderbilt game and that the only Portsmouth person he saw was the postmaster to (Continued On Page Six.)

OLD CRONIES THERE

One Minute of Darkness Tonight Over Nation

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 21.—(AP)—This is the fifty-second anniversary of the incandescent light—and the funeral day of the man who invented it.

With the first wisps of today's dawn, the body of Thomas Edison was moved from the vine-wreathed laboratory where in life so many masterpieces of his genius were created.

The bronze casket was taken, under escort, to Glenmont, the Edison home. For private funeral services at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Only the closest friends were invited to join the family, yet the list of mourners numbered more than four hundred.

The burial at Rosedale cemetery was, like the services at the home, arranged to avoid ostentation or pomp.

President Hoover, pressed with affairs of state, was unable to attend the funeral of his friend. Mrs. Hoover, however, travelled from the capital for the services.

Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, the two survivors of a famous triumvirate, arrived late yesterday.

Twenty-five thousand persons passed by the bronze casket in the half-light of the laboratory yesterday. Other thousands had preceded them Monday. Mr. Firestone came with Mr. Ford to say a last "goodbye" to their friend and comrade, was among those who stood for a mystic-eyed moment before the bier.

Mr. Ford did not enter the room in which the body of the inventor lay. He wanted no sight of death, he said, to cloud the memory of his last sight of his friend.

The Rev. Dr. Stephen J. Horden, a former Methodist minister and a friend of Mr. Edison, officiated at the informal funeral services at the home.

There was nationwide response to the suggestion by President Hoover, in a statement yesterday, that all electric lights be turned off for one minute at 10 o'clock Eastern Standard Time tonight—crystallizing the attention of 120,000,000 people upon the vital part in their lives of a single Edison invention.

The honor guard maintained by Edison employees at the inventor's bier was replaced last night by de-

OHIO ROBBER GANG FACE MANY CHARGES

FRACES OF OUTLAWRY FOUND IN CITIES AND TOWNS ALL OVER STATE

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Huntington police have received a request from Mansfield, O., authorities for photographs and fingerprints of three men and a woman held here after a raid on an apartment that resulted in the seizure of a quantity of arms, explosives and wearing apparel, believed to be stolen.

Mansfield officers said they wished the descriptions in checking upon the bombing of the plant of the Mansfield Journal about two months ago.

Meantime, Lewis Short, 20, Huntington, and Harry Myers, 34, Detroit, were returned to Upper Sandusky, O., to face burglary charges. James Hartley, 30, Detroit, first held on a gun carrying charge, was fined $50 and sentenced to 12 months in jail and later charges of possessing stolen goods and burglary were filed against him.

Doris Bennett, 23, of Walburg, Mich., was charged with possessing stolen goods and burglary. She will be given a preliminary hearing Saturday.

Police estimated the value of the clothing seized at several thousand dollars and said they had received requests for information from Louisville, Grayson, and Ashland, Ky., Gallipolis, O., and Charleston, W. Va.

KNEDLER STORE
BURGLARIZED*Thieves Haul Away Over $100 Worth of Goods

Removing a glass from a rear window, thieves entered the W. E. Knedler general store at New Martinsburg, Tuesday night, and hauled away in an automobile that headed toward this city, more than $100 worth of goods.

First tapping the cash register, the thieves obtained about $2 in change. They then collected sacks of sugar, cans of lard, shoes, socks, shirts, overalls, jackets, duck coats, candy, cigarettes, rubber boots, and numerous other articles, which were piled into the waiting automobile and the thieves made their escape.

There is reason to believe that the car came from the direction of Greenfield. Sheriff Minton was called to the store early Wednesday morning, made a careful investigation, and started out on what meager clues were offered, in an endeavor to locate the thieves.

$100 PACKARD
LICENSE $25*Large Per cent of Autos
Not Taxed Here

Discussing the new auto license plate fees and what it will mean in the way of increased cost to a great many persons who have large automobiles, County Auditor Walter Robison stated Wednesday that a large percent of the automobiles listed in Fayette county had escaped taxation as personal property, and that the new license law would catch all of these cars.

It was pointed out that a large number of auto owners have returned their autos with other personal property, and by reason of the $100 exemption clause in the tax law, claimed their exemption and paid no taxes.

It was also pointed out that some of the old cars in use, by reason of their horsepower, would be taxed as high as $25 for license plates. For example one man owns a Packard that cost him around $100, and the license fee on the old Packard will be $25.

Some of the old cars will be required to obtain license plates at a cost almost as great as the value of the old boats, while a new car of the same make, costing $2,000 or more, would pay the same license fee, and at the same time the car would not be listed for personal taxes, this not being required.

RALPH ROLISON
FUNERAL THURSDAY

Funeral services for Ralph Rolison, 46, who died Monday at his home in Springfield, the result of cancer of the stomach from which he had suffered for the past year or more, will be held at two o'clock Thursday afternoon from the Lees Creek Christian Church, in charge of Rev. Chauncey Cox. Interment will be made in the Lees Creek cemetery under direction of H. L. Littleton, of Sabina.

Mr. Rolison formerly conducted a general store at Yatesville for three or four years, until a year or two ago.

He is survived by his widow, one son, John E., at home, two daughters, Mrs. Evelyn Badger, of Columbus, and Audra at home. Also by one sister, Mrs. Lottie Grimsley of Sabina.

So far as known the thieves left little or no clue to work upon.

However the authorities are busy delving into the theft in the hope that the animals may be traced. The hogs were all Hampshire weighing 160 pounds or more.

TOASTMASTERS SPONSOR A HALLOWE'EN SHOW

Committees Named to Lay Out Definite Plans for Festivities

The Toastmasters SClub, at the request of the Business and Civic Association, will see to it that hobbles and ghosts will walk again this year, and that things supernatural and otherwise will take place on Halloween, and that every youngster, and older who wants to remain young, will have an opportunity to participate in the fun on the eve of all things hallow.

At the Tuesday night meeting of the club, formal acceptance of sponsoring the Halloween Celebration again this year was made, and the club immediately got down to business in naming committees and discussing plans which will insure a successful celebration in which citizens generally are invited to participate.

Definite plans have not yet been made public, but the committees named will begin functioning at once, and there is every assurance that the coming celebration will be one of the best in recent years, and that every opportunity will be provided for those in costume to enjoy themselves to the limit, as well as provide entertainment for the several thousands of persons expected to watch the festivities, activities and what not.

Selby P. Gerstner, who did some notable work in the celebration staged last year, will be general chairman, and Ralph Lloyd, who also had a prominent part in last year's event, will assist the general chairman.

Other committees named for the celebration are:

Finance Committee—George Pensyl, Roy Downs, Robert Eastman.

Music Committee—Kary J. Kay, R. A. Wagner.

Lighting—Cline Deer, Ernest Snyder.

Prize—Ray Snyder, Z. R. Barton, Clark Pennysyl.

Publicity—J. L. Cadwallader, Ralph Lloyd.

Parade—Wm. Markley, John Hill, Joe Campbell, Lamoine Everhart, Paul Streavy.

Judges Committee—Chas. Lewis, Fred Graves, Carl Ellison.

Stunt—Stewart Gossard, Eugene Jones, Forest Bottenfield, Frank O'Boyle, H. J. (Bus) Foster, Forest Smith, Carl McCoy.

Secret Committee—J. E. Van

Winkle, Chas. Swartz.

Location and arrangements committee, Col. Heli G. Allen, Charles Thompson, Nick Rambos.

It is understood that the Toastmasters are planning some new stunts in connection with the celebration, and will endeavor to smooth up the rough spots in previous celebrations.

At the same meeting the club members were entertained by the Radio Quartet, of Jeffersonville, in a series of vocal and instrumental selections, and Gene Matthews, assisted in the entertainment with a series of readings.

Beauty Wise Women Know This

Many women believe that the purpose of face powder is to cover the skin. But women who are wise in the ways of beauty know that the correct function of face powder is to bring out the warm tones of the skin.

That is why they use Cara Nome always — because the extra fineness of this smooth-spreading powder brings out the delicate skin tints, rather than masking them beneath a thick powder layer.

She led him to the rear of the apartment, and pointed out a big trunk. He was unable to lift it from the floor.

"What," he asked, "is in that to make it so heavy?"

"Books," Mrs. Judd replied briefly.

Swartz summoned two friends who had ridden up with him on the trunk. Together they dragged the trunk out and placed it abroad.

Schwartz said he informed Mrs. Judd he could not take the trunk to the railroad station unless she would accompany it, since it was apparent the weight charge upon it would be excessive.

She then told him to take to 1133 8th Street, which later investigation proved to be her own home. Police learned the same trunk in company with a smaller one, was taken to the railroad station Sunday by H. U. Grimm, owner of the apartment, at the request of Mrs. Judd, for shipment to Los Angeles.

Although they had the testimony of one neighbor that three shots were heard from the victim's apartment the night of Oct. 16, and police had found bloodstains there investigators were unable to determine definitely where the slayings were perpetrated.

"Dear folks, I suppose the greatest catastrophe imaginable has come across our lives. . . . Ruth is accused of a great crime. Circumstantial evidence seems to be against her. She has told me nothing and I want to know nothing unless she is caught by the law and gives herself up and is brought to trial. . . . I want you, Mom, to go back through letters you have of Ruth's which would be evidence to show her insanity. Many of the letters are incoherent and contradictory. The girl is mentally off balance, I'm sure."

Newark, N. J., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A woman was questioned today to determine if she was Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, wanted for a double slaying in Arizona, but was later released.

A Trenton garage man reported the woman to police as possibly being the fugitive, but she was able easily to prove her identity.

The Big Idea

Rotary club members had the privilege, Tuesday, of listening to an address by Rufus C. Dawes, of Chicago.

Mr. Dawes is one of the outstanding leaders, in business and finance, in this great mid-west section, he is the active directing executive in that combination of enterprises and utilities companies we have come to designate as the Dawes interests. He might have talked about that great organization, its achievements and wealth, but he didn't refer to them.

He might, as one familiar with great financial and industrial projects, have discoursed upon the economic depression, its cause and cure, but he didn't. In fact he didn't talk about matters most of his hearers had expected he would. He is director general of the Chicago World Fair organization, and even that great enterprise was referred to but briefly. The details of the gigantic plans were not dwelt upon.

He gave Rotary club members a brief but clear outline of the creation of this Ohio country which included Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, how it was settled, by whom it was carved out of the wilderness and the foundation of its laws, the progress that had been made in the last century and then, near the close of his address, stated that Chicago was preparing its world's fair to show all that had been accomplished, as something to be proud of and to be preserved.

That was the big idea, or ideal, upon which the world's fair project was based.

Mr. Dawes's thought, doubtless, was that we must go back to the beginning of our existence as a nation,
 go back to the ideals that led us, through hardships, to our present greatness if we are to preserve what we have won. And he is right about it.

If we are to conquer the destructionists, no matter what their disguise, whether bolshevik, gangster, alien or just plain crank, we must come to a realization of the value of our possessions and be as unselfish in our efforts to safeguard them as our forefathers were in laying the foundations upon which we have built.

It was a forceful address. It carried to all who heard it a message of warning and of promise.

"The Star Witness"

That was the title of a talking picture shown at the Fayette theater here on the first two days of the week—"The Star Witness".

We wish every one could have seen it because to see it meant that the great lesson we, of the present day, must learn, if this nation's priceless institutions of government are to be again enthroned with all their glorious guarantees, would be driven home with irresistible force. It made conditions and the remedy so plain that even the most frivolous minded and selfish could not escape its teachings.

When gang domination struck its brutal blows
 at a typical American family all were willing to endure the outrages they had suffered and how in obedience to the dictates of the lawless, through fear of consequences, if they arrayed themselves on the side of law—all, with one exception, the grandfather, a civil war veteran who held fast to the fundamentals of free government he had fought to save. He, alone, had the courage to give his testimony for the state and nation and he was the "Star Witness."

That's what the law abiding need in this country
 —the courage that comes with knowing our feet are firmly planted on the right foundation. We have too many people who are only moved to act when "the what's in it for me" demand is complied with. Nation and law and right must again become the paramount urge of humanity. The lawless are only a small minority but the majority has lost its courage.

When we realize again that the might of right is more powerful than the might of vice and are willing to take our stand on that side—gang rule will become a horrid chapter in past history.

"What's in it for us". Everything good is in it for us if we take a fearless stand for right and every disaster, in this as in every other crisis, is lurking in the shadows of cowardice and narrow selfishness.

 Looking Back

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Washington, Oct. 21.—How soon after they happen do national and international events cease to be news and become history?

"Actually occurring events are history in the making," answered Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, "and
 the moment they have occurred, in a literal sense
 they are history."
 "Still, it is true,
 more or less time
 must elapse before they can be considered, for practical purposes, historically."

It was as the country's foremost authority on America's story that the George Washington Bicentennial commission unanimously chose Dr. Hart to be its official historian. For nearly 50 years he has been historical instructor at Harvard. Since the appearance of his "Formation of the Union" in 1892, the books he has given to the world made a good-sized library.

If anyone knows what history is,
 Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart does.
 "Perhaps two years," said the professor, "is a fair estimate of the amount of time that a historian should be allowed after the fact of an important event, to digest it.
 Then it may be that he will require a considerably greater allowance to investigate other facts bearing on it."

"To be liberal, I think I would say that an event 10 years old can reasonably be regarded as historic."

"Of course," pondered the doctor, "it does frequently happen that fresh light is thrown upon an episode, or sequence of them, after a much longer interval than a mere decade."

"Documentary evidence often is withheld indefinitely.
 "For example, many men in historic key positions keep diaries which, while their authors live, are not made public."

"State papers, too, filed away and forgotten sometimes remain rather long dust for years until discovered by pure accident, occasionally revealing information of the highest historic interest."

Is the world living history today
 of more than average significance?
 Or does it simply seem so to us, because it is our own and therefore of especial concern to us?

"Oh, we appear to be living in a period of unquestionably great change," replied the professor,
 "and therefore a period which will be deeply studied by succeeding generations."

"What mystifies us, in the midst of it, will be clear to future historians, viewing the epoch in its entirety, but they assuredly will recognize it as a transitional chapter in the chronicle, and, as such, an exceptional chapter."

Poetry For Today

A PATRIOTIC CREED
 To serve my country day by day
 At any humble post I may
 To honor and respect her flag
 To live the trials of which I brag;
 To be American in deed
 As well as in my printed creed.
 To stand for truth and honest toil,
 To till my little patch of soil
 And keep in mind the debt I owe
 To them who died that I might know
 My country, prosperous and free,
 And passed this heritage to me.
 I always must in troubles' hour
 Be guided by the men in power
 For God and country I must live,
 My best for God and country give;
 No act of mine that men may scan
 Must shame the name American.
 To do my best and play my part
 American in mind and heart;
 To serve the flag and bravely stand
 To guard the glory of my land;
 To be American in deed;
 God grant me strength to keep this creed!
 —Selected.

duction already will have explained itself the solution," said Dr.
 Hart, "will appear perfectly obvious to them."

"It is anything but obvious now,"
 He rubbed his brow perplexedly.
 "With an industrial equipment amply adequate to supply the needs of the whole world's peoples, with a world in dire distress for the very necessities which this equipment could supply so readily and with the industries themselves equally distressed from the lack of demand for their products, we yet are unable to bring all these elements together."

"The inference certainly is overwhelming that a cog has slipped somewhere."

The professor shrugged; evidently the situation appealed to him as a historian rather than as an economist.

"The historic tempo, as well as the industries' tempo," he remarked, "is accelerated in our day.
 American history, since the colonies fairly could be considered collectively, covers approximately 200 years. From the date of the discovery of the telegraph, the pace has increased steadily."

"At present, weeks may witness a transformation more complete than could have occurred in any whole preceding century."

"Time was when the news of a new international move in the Orient was a year in reaching Washington. Now, before the move is completed, the state department is formulating a policy to meet it."

BATTERED BODY FOUND IN

Medina, O., Oct. 21.—(P)—John Tyler Halliday, 92-year-old recluse whose body was found in his shack Monday, hammered to death by some one inspired by stories of hidden wealth, Medina county authorities said.

Halliday, however, kept his money in a bank. He owned property which gave him an income and formerly kept large sums of money in his house.

His body, the head crushed, was found by neighbors who entered his home when they became alarmed after not seeing him since Saturday. A blood stained hammer was found nearby.

The shack, located in Chippewa Lake Village, near here, had been ransacked from top to bottom, Sheriff Lyman Buffington said.

Halliday, a Civil war veteran, had feared such a fate, friends said.

High Spots In Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH
 Dr. Howard Jones of Circleville, in an address at Columbus a few years ago, did a little of the much that remains to be done to bring the people of Ohio to a realization of the importance of the work that George Rogers Clark and his little band of Virginia soldiers did in the northwest as a part of the war of the colonies to bring Great Britain to acknowledgement of their independence.

With only a commission from Virginia as his authority, and but little material aid even from that one colony, Clark wrested this western territory from the British who had held it, with military headquarters at Detroit from the time of its cession from the French in 1763, his little army covering enormous distances, through unbroken wilds, and against obstacles that would have dismayed men of less determination, and winning their engagements often by surprise attacks upon the British, or by a display of strength when they were in fact comparatively weak.

And in addition to all this Clark was obliged to provide his own resources. Far out of touch with the East and the base of such supplies as the colonies had for war use, Clark had to depend wholly upon himself. For such supplies as he must buy he drew upon his private fortune, so that the contingent of peace found him impoverished. It is an unpleasant feature of the history of the times that he was never properly reimbursed either by Virginia or by the federal government when it was formed.

There is in the court history of the country what has been called
 "The Centennial Case" which was a process by which the estate of a wealthy and friendly resident of St. Louis, who made advancements to General Clark when he was on his campaign, sought to recover from the government. It was not decided until 1876, practically a hundred years after the debt was created.

STANDING IN LINE
 I was third in line at the box office of the biggest of movie pal-ahead of me—strangers to each other. The women who accompanied them were waiting at one side.

In making the first man's change, the girl in the booth loosed a very old quarter from the change chute. The fellow examined it and grumbled:
 "You can't pass that off on me."
 The girl apologized; she hadn't noticed the quarter, of course, as it fell from the mechanical contrivance.

The man second in line asked to see the coin.
 "I'd like to trade you another one for it," he said. "Old coins are good luck."
 "Lemme see it again, will you?"
 the first gentleman said to the second. "Is it real?"

The second assured him it was genuine, but refused to part with the coin because he had laid another on the counter in exchange.
 And if it hadn't been for the big doorman hawling at them to quit blocking the line, there might have been an argument sure enough; for the first gentleman began to insist that the quarter had been given to him first and now he wanted it!

THE Cecilia Club presented the Hillsboro Music Club in a very ambitious program Tuesday afternoon, and was also favored in having Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, of Chicago, of the National Federation of Women's Clubs as the afternoon's speaker.

Occasionally this club of musicians throws open its session to other clubs and for the very delightful afternoon the Browning Club and a few favored guests were included.

Mrs. Mary G. Burgett, president, gave cordial greeting to the large gathering of women and Mrs. D. E. Kelley, treasurer called the roll, to which there was gratifying response.

The members of the Hillsboro club who presented the program were introduced by Mrs. Dorothy Polk Noffsger. The following program was presented:

The Hillsboro Music Club is made up of talented musicians, who presented a program both brilliant and extremely difficult.

The quartet and duet work on two pianos was really a technical feat and called forth enthusiastic admiration. The rendition of Symphonie 5 (C minor)—L. van Beethoven brought the program to a triumphant close and was one of the most ambitious musical achievements in many club programs.

Jennibelle Evans Richards contributed greatly to the pleasure of the program in two admirably chosen and quite unusual songs. Her voice a mezzo soprano of much sweetness, resonance and volume, her high notes especially beautiful and her shading exquisite in delicacy.

Mrs. Burgett expressed the club's appreciation to the Hillsboro musicians, and this was emphasized by Mrs. David S. Craig before her introduction of Mrs. Dawes. Mrs. Craig voiced for the club the pleasure felt in having with its members a former Washington "Court House" girl, Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, nee Helen Palmer, who had served on the Board of the National Federation of Women's Clubs in various capacities and is now engaged in important work connected with the World's Fair of 1932, of which Mrs. Dawes is General Director.

Mrs. Dawes' all too brief talk, was delightful, introducing amusing reminiscences of her girlhood in this city, and speaking fluently and with entertaining humor upon subjects of special interest to women.

There was much interest in the glimpses of the famous Women's Club in Evanston, Ill., and its Home Economic department, which had been widely heralded in its first establishing of the community kitchening, of inestimable help to women who found their days crowded with housework.

In her conversational talk Mrs. Dawes said, "We women have gotten into the habit of letting other people think for us, until our minds are like empty cups, some leaking out before we reach home."

She discussed various helpful plans which had been developed by club organization in Chicago and how these had been a great help to mothers and in housekeeping. To accomplish such things could hardly have been possible except through women's organization.

Mrs. Dawes also spoke with feeling upon a "lopsided" education, which develops the intellectual side rather than the artistic—that educates the mind but does not give the culture in nature, art and music which contributes so greatly to the pleasure of life.

The club and its guests regretted that Mrs. Dawes' talk could not have been longer, and gave a ringing vote of thanks to her and to the Hillsboro Club.

There was a pleasurable social hour over the extremely pretty table, centered with a large bowl of autumn flowers. Mrs. B. E. Kelley and Mrs. Walter D. Craig poured and tea delicacies and confections filled trays and bon bon dishes. Mrs. Frank S. Jackson and Mrs. J. Herbert Chapman were in charge of the tea.

Washington women greatly enjoyed visiting with Mrs. Dawes, who received with Mrs. Burgett and Mrs. Craig before the program, and with the Hillsboro artists during the social hour.

Mrs. Byron Dawley, of Long Beach, California, and Mrs. Henry Nicholas, of New York, were visiting guests.

A notable event in Eastern Star and Masonic lodge circles at New Holland, was the observance, Tuesday night, of the 35th anniversary of the Purity Chapter 65, Eastern Star, and 64th anniversary of the New Holland Lodge F. & A. M., which brought together a large number of members and visitors, including Mrs. Eva J. Penn, Past Grand Matron, this city, and Mrs. Carmen Coil, of near Washington, who participated in the installation of Purity Chapter 34 years ago.

Miss Leah Blinn presided as Worthy Matron of the Star chapter, and C. M. Clifton, Worthy Master of the F. & A. M. Lodge 352.

An interesting and entertaining program was presented, and the evening's enjoyment completed with refreshments and a social hour.

Mrs. Mabel French and Mrs. Mary Vincent sang a duet, "Love's Creed" dedicated to Mrs. Eva J. Penn, with Mrs. Muriel Yeoman at the piano.

The Worthy Matron addressed the past matrons and patrons of the lodge, and as Coit Cleary sang "Open The Gates to the Temple," the former officers entered the Chapter room. Mrs. Frank Carter was at the piano as accompanist.

The Good Will Quartet, of Clarksburg, sang a number of selections and were recalled a number of times. Mrs. Carl Speckman, of Columbus gave a beautiful piano solo, and Rev. F. E. Roberts sang two numbers, with Mrs. Roberts accompanying.

Mrs. Bessie F. Brice, grand secretary, Columbus, talked for a short time and outlined the history of the Eastern Star. C. C. Chappelear of Circleville, outlined the history of the Masonic lodge.

Miss Marie Hamilton, deputy grand matron, Circleville, was given an honorary membership in Purity Chapter, the presentation being made by Mrs. Martin Jennings.

Mrs. Orland Hays and Miss Gwendolyn Wolfe, of Washington, the former as pianist and the latter violinist, entertained the assembly with several beautiful numbers.

W. C. French was in charge of the program, and was roundly complimented for the completeness of the attractive program.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Georgiana Clifton, Mrs. Ida Griffith and W. C. French.

Those from a distance enjoying the anniversary celebration were—Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. Brice Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones, Miss Gwendolyn Wolfe, of Washington C. H., Mrs. Maude Straley, of Jeffersonville, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirk, of Urbana.

The crucial financial situation which is threatening the maintenance of our city school system was the dominant interest of the Sunday-side Parent-Teacher Association at its meeting on Tuesday evening. On motion of George Robinson it was unanimously and enthusiastically voted to support the one mill levy for school purposes, at the coming November election.

Superintendent St. Clair told of the great influx of children into our schools—the enrollment is the greatest in the history of the city—and of the unprecedented demand for books and supplies which is very difficult to meet on account of the decreased revenue.

Preceding the discussion of the grave situation, Mrs. Mildred Fogie, the president of the association led the assemblage in the singing of America and conducted a lengthy business session. The secretary, Miss Marie Hughes, read several communications of interest to the meeting. Mrs. Olive Spreng read the treasurer's report and also the financial statement of the carnival which was held recently, showing a substantial sum of money in the treasury. Mrs. Fogie extended the sincere thanks of the association to all those persons in both the city and country who contributed to the success of the undertaking and made especial mention of the merchants of the city. She presented to Principal A. A. White, for the school, the new framed charter of the association.

The entertainment of the evening was a dramatization, by nine adorable children of Mrs. Mary K. Hixon's second grade, of the story of "The Three Little Pigs." Alice Townsley read the lesson and others in the play were Ann Robinson, Janice Thompson, Geraldine Pidgeon, Betty Jane Stewart, Coy Stookey, Damon Hughes, John Anderson, and Keith McMurray. The performance was simply charming and the banner for the highest percent of parents in attendance was won by Mrs. Hixon's grade. A beautiful vocal solo was given by Phyllis Pittinger—a tribute to grandmother, who was impersonated by Barbara Sprenger. Mrs. Rex Pittinger played the piano.

Twenty-five members of the True Blue class of Grace M. E. Sunday School assembled at the home of Mrs. Chloe Ashley, Tuesday evening, for a most enjoyable class meeting. Mrs. Ashley and her assisting committee, Mrs. Leo Bogges, Miss Carrie Bell and Mrs. Charles H. Allen, planned a gay little Halloween party in connection with the meeting and extended delightful hospitality.

Mrs. Norman L. McLean, president, conducted a brief business session, followed by several entertaining contests. Miss Opal Davids was a prize winner in one of the contests.

For the serving of especially tempting refreshments, tables were arranged in the dining room and in the sun room and were attractively appointed with pumpkin faces, orange and black candles and other suggestions of Halloween.

Miss Daisy Cockerill is teacher of the class.

The Seldon Grange No. 1929 held the monthly meeting with Mr. and Mrs. Job Burris on the Greenfield and Sabina road, Worthy Master Ralph Nisley in charge and conducting the opening business.

Mr. Charles McCoy, County Deputy, was the inspecting officer and inspected the order. Mr. Elba Carson, of New Martinsburg, made a talk on "Grange Life Insurance." Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Mark were elected delegates to the State Grange Convention in Sandusky the second week of December.

There was a short literary program following roll call.

Miss Ruth Nisley gave a report of the recent meeting in Wilmington which initiated a class of 149 into the sixth degree. Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Mark and Miss Nisley were members of this class. Maurice Sollars gave a fitting tribute to Thomas A. Edison.

After the program there was a weiner roast over a blazing fire back of the house and a very jolly wind up of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elba Carson and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Limes were guests.

Mrs. Fred Graves arranged an informal little two-table bridge party, Tuesday evening, as a surprise to Mr. Graves on his birthday. The additional guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Kimer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. James Summers.

Trophies in the bridge game were won by Mrs. Summers and Mr. Thompson.

A delicious two course collation was served at the close of the game, the tables prettily appointed in Halloween suggestions.

The Browning Club was assembled in the Federated club rooms, Tuesday evening, for a most interesting and instructive program presented by the Department of Literature. Mrs. Estella K. Blackmer, club president, was in the chair and presided over the opening features of the meeting.

Miss Cordelia McCafferty, Department chairman, was in charge of the program, including three splendidly prepared papers on modern writers. The first, "Gene Stratton Porter," was presented by Mrs. Margaret Meriwether, who gave an instructive insight into her aspirations. She said in part "Mrs. Porter's ambition was not to write a masterpiece but to write something new, instructive and inspiring. Her ideas of life were based on a few principles and love—love of God, love of nature and love of fellowmen."

The second paper, "Booth Tarkington," was the subject assigned to Mrs. Urcel Hays. She said his latest book, "High Summer," like his other books on adolescence, shows his understanding of youth is ever fresh, intimate and sympathetic. Tarkington's whole career is an inspiration.

Mrs. Lou Gregg presented "James Whitcomb Riley." At no time in his life was Riley a failure. To please his father he tried to study law, but "That Old Sweetheart of Mine" crowded out Blackstone. In Indianapolis, the Children's Hospital bears his name.

Following her paper, Mrs. Gregg recited beautifully, "Old Man's Nursery Rhyme."

Miss Elizabeth Godfrey added two brilliant piano numbers to the program, playing MacDowell's "To a Water Lily," and Chopin's "Minute Waltz."

Seventeen members of the Past Councillors Club of the D. of A. lodge enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Darrell Wehrlich, Tuesday evening, at the hour of the regular meeting. Mrs. Wehrlich's assisting hostess was Mrs. Myrtle Jones and the two extended delightful courtesies. A number of the members were accompanied by their husbands and for their entertainment, the hostesses arranged cards.

Mrs. Myrtle Durham, president, conducted the business session, followed by contests and a social hour. Mrs. R. E. Browning was a prize winner in the contests.

Delicious refreshments, appropos to the season, brought the evening to a close.

LIVING AND LOVING

BY VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR MISS LEE: Just one more sad story for this column. "I have been married nearly 29 years. I love my husband, and have always been happy in trying to help and please him in every way. I trusted him perfectly and he always seemed to enjoy my confidence until one day he became offended when I told him about the misconduct of a neighbor woman. I was not aware then that he, too, had fallen for her. If I had been I surely would not have dared to mention the fact, for I have often heard when a man becomes infatuated with a woman he sees nothing but perfection in all that she says and does."

"She gets all the praise, love and affection and plenty of money for beauty parlors and fine clothes. This is my reward for more than half a lifetime of service and love and by economizing in every way possible to help him get ahead. I never get a word or sign of appreciation or love, but much fault-finding and grouching."

"This woman has bragged about how easily the men fall into her trap, especially the old men. I have never spoken about my deep sorrow, but neighbors have offered their sympathy."

"My health is failing under this terrible strain and if he doesn't change very soon I will have to leave. He seems to think I ought to be happy and contented, but God didn't make a true wife that way."

MOST UNHAPPY."

Why don't you go away for a time, until you can get yourself more in hand? A few days or weeks away from the neighborhood of the bad, bold woman who is fascinating your husband and from the sympathetic neighbors, will help you get a clearer view of your problem. The best thing to do in the latter case is to tell said neighbors in the sweetest possible manner, to mind their own business.

The trouble with all of us who have to go through such an experience is that we are so overcome by our emotions that we can't see clearly. The way to fight this woman is not to take a martyrlike attitude and moan that "she gets all the praise, love and affection," and this is your "reward for more than half a lifetime of service and love," etc. That gets you nowhere.

Good natured banter without rancor about the "girl friend," keeping alive the happy home spirit, and all that is chummy and companionable in the life you have lived together all these years, making your husband comfortable and keeping him so, are your truest weapons. And if you wield them lustily and with faith in their efficiency, you'll win out. You don't think for a minute that this woman has any more hold on your man than to tickle his vanity that such an attractive creature should smile and smirk at him, do you?

I know just what you are saying, that it is easy to talk, but what you want to do is to knock this woman down and jump up and down on her, pull her hair and otherwise injure her. That is what all of us want to do when anyone takes our man away from us. We may consider ourselves civilized and cultivated, but the primitive cave woman is in every one of us ready to spring out when someone tries to snatch our own away from us. But, after all, we are civilized—or we at least have a veneer of civilization, and we should try to settle our problems in a more subtle and sensible way.

That is why I advise you to go away for awhile and get hold of yourself.

Dear Diary.

Story of a Girl who went to New York for Fame and Fortune.
By ETHELDA BEDFORD
RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

THURSDAY NIGHT.

DEAR DIARY: That time between sundown and dark found us gliding along a Brooklyn road. We started out from the studio in Long Island and I didn't ask him where he was taking me.

I was too happy. And it gets tiresome making up your mind when alone where you're going—whether you'll take the subway or the trolley or walk. So, when you have a chance to be driven in a swanky car with one of the most thrilling looking men, why—well, there seemed so many other things to say, than "Where are we going?"

Not that I could remember any of those things.

I liked the way he wore his light gray felt. Sort of down on one side and rolled on the other. Like Mayor Jimmie Walker's hat.

I liked the way he lit cigarettes—oh, I can't say why, it seemed something brand new.

He has a pleasant whistle—and even if that professor did say that men who whistled were morons, I liked to hear him. No wonder, he whistled that lovely tune, "I Don't Know Why I Love You Like I Do."

I thought I was much too sentimental—thinking, it seemed, a little like a theme song for this sudden bit of romance.

We didn't talk much—although he had said he wanted to talk to me for a long time, or something to that effect.

I was thinking about what he said about realizing I was a child! Now what is there to say? You feel you must defend yourself, though.

In the sunlight I observed there were some gray hairs about his temples. I never had been out with a man with gray in his temples before. Suddenly I felt a little awed. I guess I'm becoming somewhat dignified myself—or else I wouldn't have attracted him.

I'm taking you somewhere you haven't been—at least, I don't think you've been, yet."

"You interest me," I said. "Coney Island."

"I haven't been."

"I haven't, either—for years."

"How did you happen to think of it? I've always wanted to go—ever since I've been in New York."

"It will be fun—with you."

"With you," I came back.

And I knew then how much a child I had seemed to him—but I decided after all that was nothing to worry about.

LINEMAN DIES OF INJURIES

Burns and Shock Fatal to John Hause

John Hause, 24, lineman for The Dayton Power and Light Company who, Monday forenoon, was seriously burned when his right wrist and hand came in contact with a 6,600 volt wire on top of a steel tower east of Milledgeville, passed away in Grant Hospital, Columbus, Tuesday evening at 5:30 o'clock.

Hause was taken to Columbus after he had been given first aid treatment here, and it was found that his burns were of a very grave nature, and that he had also suffered seriously from the great shock. He had been kicked loose from his footing on the tower, by a fellow workman who had sought to save his life by breaking the contact, knowing that his safety belt would hold him.

Mr. Hause is survived by his widow, and mother, Mrs. Nort Hause.

The body was brought to this city and taken to the Kiever Funeral Home where it was prepared for burial and will remain until Thursday forenoon, when it will be removed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Banner Hodson, 617 S. Main street, where Mr. and Mrs. Hause made their home. Friday the body will be taken to the Kiever Funeral Home for funeral services at 10:00 a. m., followed by burial in the Washington cemetery.

EDISON LAID TO REST ON 52ND ANNIVERSARY OF GREAT INVENTION

tails from the Army, the Marine corps, the National Guard, and the Navy.

One deeply affected by the passing of the inventor was William H. Meadowcroft, 79-years-old, who was personal secretary to Mr. Edison for more than half a century. He broke down as he stood by the body of his long time employer yesterday and had to be helped from the room.

Meadowcroft, who has himself been seriously ill, was to attend the Edison funeral this afternoon and later the funeral of an Edison pioneer, John Ott. Ott's death occurred Sunday when he heard that Mr. Edison had died a few hours before.

Americans made Thomas Edison's electric lamp today a beacon of tribute to his memory.

One minute of darkness at 10 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, to night—an hour when night will have enfolded all America—was suggested by President Hoover, as a solemn tribute to the memory of Thomas Alva Edison.

"I suggest," the president said, "that all individuals should extinguish their lights for one minute Wednesday evening, October 21, at 10 o'clock Eastern Standard Time. It is my understanding that the broadcasting companies will undertake a brief program in respect to Mr. Edison's memory at this moment."

Mr. Hoover said the turning off of electrical current at generating plants, as had been suggested, "would constitute a great peril to life throughout the country."

"This demonstration of the dependence of the country upon electrical current for its life and health," the president concluded, "is in itself a monument to Mr. Edison's genius."

Augmenting the presidential suggestions were gubernatorial proclamations, mayoral claims upon the people and announcements by great public utilities of special tributes.

In Ohio, birth state of the inventor, Governor White called upon citizens to pay their respects to Mr. Edison's memory during the hours of his funeral—between 2:30 and 4 P. M. At Milan, where he was born, all business was to halt for an hour at 3 o'clock with memorial services in the public schools.

At Akron, O., home of his close friend Harvey S. Firestone, and the city to which Mr. Edison went for his bride, who was Miss Mina Miller, the street lights will be turned off for one minute at 7 o'clock tonight.

Several cities planned to turn all lights on during the hour of the funeral.

In Detroit street lights were to blaze by day, while other lights added to the daylight in illuminating the Edison Memorial Fountain in the downtown district. The Detroit city council ordered the cessation of all activities for one minute at 3 P. M.

Denver also arranged to turn all lights on during the funeral hour.

The great plants of Henry Ford, among the closest friends of Mr. Edison, were ordered closed throughout the afternoon.

In Hollywood where an Edison invention—the moving picture camera—has given work and wealth to thousands, all operations were ordered halted for three minutes at noon.

In Chicago where great electric-powered public utilities are controlled by Samuel Insull—who as a poor youth started the path to business leadership upon Edison's tutelage—all public utilities (except dynamos) producing electricity were to stop at 2 P. M. Chicago schools were closed for a half day for the first time since the death of Woodrow Wilson.

In the great hall of the Edison building there a bugler sounded taps. Street cars and other transportation lines figured in the nationwide tribute. St. Louis, San Francisco, Atlanta and Chicago were among the many cities to see street cars at a standstill for one minute or more during the day.

The torch of the Statue of Liberty will be momentarily extinguished at ten o'clock.

Headquarters of the Second Corps Area of the Army, which has charge of the statue on Bedloe's island in New York harbor, announced that the famous light would be put out for one minute in accordance with President Hoover's request for a tribute of darkness.

EDISON INVENTION RECORDS HIS VOICE

St. Paul, Oct. 21.—(AP)—One of Thomas A. Edison's own inventions recorded the famous inventor's voice without his knowledge two years ago today.

Ray Bartholdi, has the record of Mr. Edison's voice. He placed a dictaphone, one of the famous inventor's creations, before a radio here Oct. 21, 1929, when Mr. Edison broadcast an address from Detroit.

The occasion was the 50th anniversary celebration of Edison's invention of the incandescent bulb.

TREASURE DIVERS BALKED BY STORM

Brest, France, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Efforts of divers of the salvage ship Artiglio II to reach the $5,000,000 gold treasure in the hold of the sunken steamer Egypt, off the Brittany coast were deferred today because of unfavorable weather.

Divers have cut away the main deck of the Egypt and are ready to enter the treasure chamber as soon as the weather permits.

MAN SERIOUSLY HURT IN QUARRY

Harold Smith Has Arm and Leg Broken

Harold Smith, 35, employed at the Armbrust stone quarry on the Greenfield road, five miles south of this city, narrowly escaped death when his right arm was caught in the conveyor at the crusher, Wednesday forenoon, and in addition to breaking his arm in three places, tore the ligaments loose from one ankle and painfully bruised him.

Smith, who is married and has one child, has been employed at the quarry since it was opened three or four years ago, and was busy with the machinery when the accident occurred.

After snapping his arm and pulling him about a post, the hold of the conveyor was released, and Smith fell helpless from the pain and shock.

He was given attention by Dr. J. M. Harshe, and then removed to the Grant hospital in the Hughey and Parrett ambulance.

WHAT IS PURPOSE OF THE HOOVER- LAVAL CONFAB?

to pay" dealing with these obligations, and that yardstick again will be used by Mr. Hoover when he talks with M. Laval.

Ability to pay was the basis of the Dawes plan and the later Young plan for German reparations. It was the basis on which in the prosperous post-war years, the United States revised and refunded the war debts owned here by the allies.

From this economic point of view, for the moment, the whole armaments problem is under review by the President. France is a large spender in military preparations. Mr. Hoover will try to make Premier Laval see how directly and powerfully, in the American view, this situation is reflected in the world financial balance.

The question of a political security pact for France is placed in quite another category.

RATE BOOST IS DENIED RAILROADS

as practicable that actual interest charges be met is justified."

The carriers were joined by savings banks and other bond holders of the roads in their petition for the increase on the grounds that the value of the securities was threatened.

A yield from the surcharge plan of between $100,000,000 and $125,000,000 annually on the basis of present traffic was estimated by the commission. This would be pooled and the needs of the carriers unable to earn interest on their bonds cared for. Then the remainder would be returned to the more prosperous roads on the basis of amounts paid in.

The carriers were taken to task for failing to put their traffic men on the stand in the hearings which ended September 11, to support the claims of the three railroad presidents who presented the case for the carriers. The recommendation was made that the traffic men study present rates with the view to revising some of them. Attention was called to many reductions voluntarily made by the carriers.

The decision was received at the White House in silence.

The President has been making a broad study of the railroad bond situation with a view to taking some step toward improving their status. What effect the decision would have upon his plans was not disclosed.

White House officials would say only that the President had no comment to make upon the railroad situation.

He said that recently he had received complaints that trustees spent too much time at lunch at the University and had ordered the lunch period cut to 15 minutes a day.

NAB FUGITIVE IN THIS CITY

Had Stove Full of Booze and Many Guns

Ernest McCampbell, colored, fugitive from the Columbus workhouse, is in the county jail awaiting officials of the workhouse to come after him, or prosecution here on charges that might send him farther than the workhouse.

McCampbell was taken into custody late Tuesday afternoon, by Sheriff Minton, Chief Wolfe and Patrolman Shasteen, at the house where he lived in the region back of the North End Filling Station.

Searching his house, the officers found seven pint bottles of liquor in a stove, and another pint, apparently for home consumption, in a closet.

They also found a series of guns, including a high powered rifle and two pump shotguns, as well as a quantity of clothing and two suitcases.

He admitted that he had escaped from the workhouse in Columbus, while serving time on a $300 fine assessed for bootlegging.

Chief Wolfe stated Wednesday that McCampbell answers the description given of the prowler who has been seen at numerous places about the city the past two or three months.

S. F. SNIDER HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Knocked Down by Stampeding Cattle

S. F. Snider, residing in Elm street in the southern part of the city, and who is known far and wide in connection with the weekly sales he conducts at his farm, had a narrow escape from serious injury and possible death, Tuesday, when a dozen cattle in the scale pen stampeded, knocked him down and would have trampled him had not Ernest Smith seized him and pulled him to safety.

Mr. Snider was in charge of the gate while the cattle were being numbered, and when the gate was opened slightly, the cattle made a rush, striking the gate, knocking Mr. Snider flat, and in a moment more would have trampled him, but Smith seized him just in time and pulled him to one side as the cattle dashed over where he had fallen.

He was badly bruised and with a cut over one eye made by the gate, and lamed for a short time, but Wednesday was able to be about the premises once more.

CALF IS STOLEN IN JEFFERSON

A. G. Blessing, residing near Jeffersonville, reported to Sheriff Minton that sometime Monday night thieves had stolen a 250 pound calf from his barn, and had tried to get away with a second calf, but the animal apparently had broken loose and escaped.

The calf stolen was one of six kept in a barn, and one of the calves was found in the barn lot with a wire about its neck. A hitchrope was missing, indicating that the other calf had been led to the roadway with the rope, and there loaded into an automobile.

MARKETS and FINANCIAL NEWS

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The stock market refused to be downcast as a result of the moderate and qualified increases in freight rates granted the railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The market was dragged down by a rather wide break in the carrier issues during the morning, and speculators who had endeavored to clean up on the basis of a partial leak on the decision yesterday, received burned fingers.

After midday, the market started upward under the leadership of the utilities. The rails rallied only partially, but several of the utilities and industrials more than regained early losses.

Credit conditions were largely stationary. Call money was offered outside at 2 per cent, a though the loan desk rate was maintained at 2½. The City of New York borrowed $32,500,000 on three months paper at 4½ per cent, however, in contrast to 1½ per cent on similar borrowings a few weeks ago.

FIL MSTAR WEDS
GROCER'S DAUGHTER

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Forsaking a pretentious Hollywood ceremony for one in the small desert town of Yuma, Ariz., Richard Dix, film actor, yesterday married Miss Winifred Coe, daughter of a retired San Francisco wholesale grocer.

The couple today was reported honeymooning in Southern California, but the place was not ascertained.

Dix, whose real name is Ernest Carlton Brimmer, gave his age as 27, and Miss Coe as 23 in taking out the marriage license. In the party which left for Yuma by plane were several relatives of both the bride and bridegroom.

The romance between Dix and Miss Coe began four years ago at a dinner party. Their betrothal was announced this week.

WOOL MARKET

Boston, Oct. 21.—(AP)—(U. S. Dept. of Agr.)—The market for domestic wools continued very much restricted but in spite of the dullness values were fairly steady. Surplus in several large wool manufacturing plants was a factor in the curtailment of raw wools. Private advices from abroad to wool concerns here told of a strong market in Australia that tended to counteract the restriction in this country.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN

Chicago, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A fresh rise in wheat values late today coincided with a renewal of stock market rallies, and with enlarged estimates of North American wheat export business. About 1,000,000 bushels of United States hard winter wheat was said to have been taken today for shipment overseas. Official reports indicated that 1931 northwest hemisphere wheat production would be 100,000,000 bushels short of 1930, exclusive of Russia and China, and that the Russian crop was also smaller despite increased acreage.

Wheat closed unsettled ½¢@¾¢ cents higher, corn unchanged to ¼¢ advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to a rise of 17 cents.

THERE HE GOES!—Orr Mohler, U. S. C. quarter, galloping 84 yards to touchdown for Trojans against Oregon eleven.

Blue Lions And Chillicothe's Vikings Evenly Matched

FOR 17 YEARS

THEY HAVE BATTLED

And After All That, They Are Still on Virtually Even Terms

EACH HAS 7 VICTORIES

Blue and White Has Four Point Lead in Scores

There is probably no more even balanced rivalry between any two high schools in Ohio than that which exists between Washington and Chillicothe—two schools which have met for the homecoming game.

A check over the records show that since 1910 there have been 16 gridiron battles waged off and on. Seven of them were won by Chillicothe, seven by Washington C. H., and the remaining two resulted in ties. A total of 185 points have been rolled up by the Blue Lions against 181 for the Chillicotheans. This is a truly remarkable record.

Upsets have featured many of the past classics on the gridiron. Back in 1912, for instance, Chillicothe took the first game that year, 16 to 6, but lost out later in the season, 13 to 6. The old adage that "history repeats itself" was demonstrated in the 1917 games. The W. H. S. team won the initial contest, 13 to 0, but the losers turned the tables before the season closed and walked away with a slim 14 to 13 win.

The widest margin of difference came in 1920 when the Blue and White crashed through to a spectacular 47 to 0 victory. Raging with anger the following year, the Ross county eleven avenged this defeat by a score of 33-0. The two ties have come within recent years. The 1925 battle here ended without any scoring and at Chillicothe in 1928 each made a touchdown, to go into the deadlock.

The only time that the Blue Lions of 1929 were scored upon was in the Chillicothe game.

The football records are as follows:

1912—W. H. S. 6; Chillicothe 16
1913—W. H. S. 13; Chillicothe 6
1914—W. H. S. 9; Chillicothe 6
1915—W. H. S. 13; Chillicothe 6
1916—W. H. S. 13; Chillicothe 6
1917—W. H. S. 13; Chillicothe 14
1918—W. H. S. 13; Chillicothe 14
1919—W. H. S. 13; Chillicothe 14
1920—W. H. S. 47; Chillicothe 0
1921—W. H. S. 0; Chillicothe 33
1922—W. H. S. 7; Chillicothe 18
1923—W. H. S. 6; Chillicothe 6
1924—W. H. S. 6; Chillicothe 10
1925—W. H. S. 0; Chillicothe 0
1926—W. H. S. 31; Chillicothe 13
1927—W. H. S. 6; Chillicothe 19
1928—W. H. S. 6; Chillicothe 6
1929—W. H. S. 7; Chillicothe 22
1930—W. H. S. 13; Chillicothe 12
1931—W. H. S. 21; Chillicothe 7
And now to "Beat Chillicothe."

Ken Meenan Out Of Northwestern Drills—Injuries

ACE OF WILDCAT SCORING MACHINE CRUSHED IN TUESDAY WORKOUT

Chicago, Oct. 21—(AP)—Ken Meenan worried Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern far more today than Ohio State's famous Bill Carroll.

Meenan, one of Hanley's prize backfield aces, was badly crushed in a scrimmage last night and it was extremely doubtful whether he would be able to start in the all-important game against the Buckeyes at Columbus Saturday.

The extent of his injuries may not be known for two days but Coach Hanley was worried and rightly so as Meenan's loss would rob him of one of the best ground gainers of 1931 football.

Meenan's injury spoiled one of the best drills of the season in the Wildcat camp last night. "Pug" Rentner, his star passer, and Ollie Olson, his best punter, returned after a few days on the injured list and their presence inspired the Wildcats.

Forgetting the cheers that followed their upset of Michigan, Ohio State was busy throwing up a defense for the Wildcats.

Larry Johnson, all-around University of North Carolina athlete, has decided to try boxing as a profession.

LINE SNAPPED BUT BIG BASS IS PULLED IN

BILL EADY MAKES PRIZE CATCH LATE TUESDAY IN NORTH FORK

One of the best fish stories of the season popped up late Tuesday evening, when Bill Eady, this city, landed a big bass from the waters of North Fork after the fish had snapped his line.

Eady and Carl Noon were fishing for bass and Eady had left his line for a few moments, when he heard the reel hissing as the line was taken out.

Rushing to the rod he found the line slack, and figured that the fish had broken the line, which was none to stout.

Reeling in rapidly, he was amazed to find that the fish had turned toward shore, but was still on the hook.

As the fish neared the shore, Eady awaiting a favorable moment swung the fish out of the water and toward the land, snapping the line as the fish was in mid-air, but the momentum carried the big fellow far enough upon dry land that he could be captured.

The fish measured 19 inches in length and weighed around 10 pounds.

Cincinnati-Miami Game For Charity

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 21—(AP)—Receipts from the annual Thanksgiving day football game here between Miami University and University of Cincinnati will be used for charity, officials of both institutions said today.

Nippert Stadium, with a seating capacity of 12,000 is filled every year for the traditional game which both schools rank as the most important on their schedule.

Whether You Are Out to Fill in or Fill Up . . . See This Underwear.

If you need but one suit to put you right with the cold weather that's coming, it need only cost you $1 at Craig's.

Or, if your last year's supply is on its last legs . . . a complete new outfit needn't bother you financially.

We have created values on necessities because we think that the man who sees what we are doing for him on the things he can't get along without won't want to get along without us when he goes in for luxuries.

OHIO FOOTBALL

PROMISES "BIG TIME"

Miami and Ohio Wesleyan Headline Attraction in Conference Saturday

MANY TEAMS ON ROAD

Wittenberg Leads Scoring with Miami Second

By The Associated Press

Rolling up 140 points in four games Wittenberg's veteran football team bounced into the scoring lead of Ohio this week, but only by the narrow margin of three points, Miami running a close second with 127.

More than half of Wittenberg's points were made last Friday night in its 99 to 0 victory over East Kentucky Teachers, although Coach Stobbs' team has played one scoreless tie. Likewise Miami failed to score in its initial game at Pittsburgh.

Strange to say, however, the leading individual scorer of the state is not a member of either team, but is Leroy Grimes of Mt. Union. Grimes has crossed his opponents goal line six times this year for a total of 36 points.

Next to the Mount Union flash and tied for second place with 30 points each, are Westfall, Ohio Wesleyan; Gabriel, Ohio University; and Schnur, University of Dayton.

Rondebusch, of Miami comes next with 26 while three other players, Samuelson of Case, Lanning of Wittenberg and Terry of Wilberforce, have 24 each. Beckwith of Xavier trails with 21.

This week will see the Buckeye Athletic Association race narrowed down when Miami meets Wesleyan at Delaware, Ohio playing at Cincinnati and Denison taking on Wabash at Crawfordsville, Ind., only one game is booked in the northwest Ohio league. Bluffton playing at Bowling Green. Findlay will play City College of Detroit at that place and Defiance, the other member is idle.

Many Ohio teams go outside of the state for the opposition this week. Rio Grande plays at Bluefield, W. Va., Marietta goes to Marshall at Huntington, W. Va., while Baldwin-Wallace and Kenyon invade New York state, the former playing Rochester and the latter Hobart at Geneva.

In the Ohio Conference Case meets Akron at that place, Otterbein plays at Ohio Northern and Oberlin will tangle at Wooster. In non-conference games Hiram plays Western Reserve and Urbana takes on Cedarville.

Several interesting games are on tap Friday night, Heidelberg playing at Muskingum, Mt. Union at Ashland, Butler at Dayton, Xavier at Wittenberg and Wilmington at John Carroll.

Old Tossing Team Back Together To Swamp Hillsboro

The old Washington C. H. horseshoe pitching team of 3 years ago is all together once more and ready to take on all comers. Before this outfit broke up and got scattered, it was a tough one to beat—it did not know defeat.

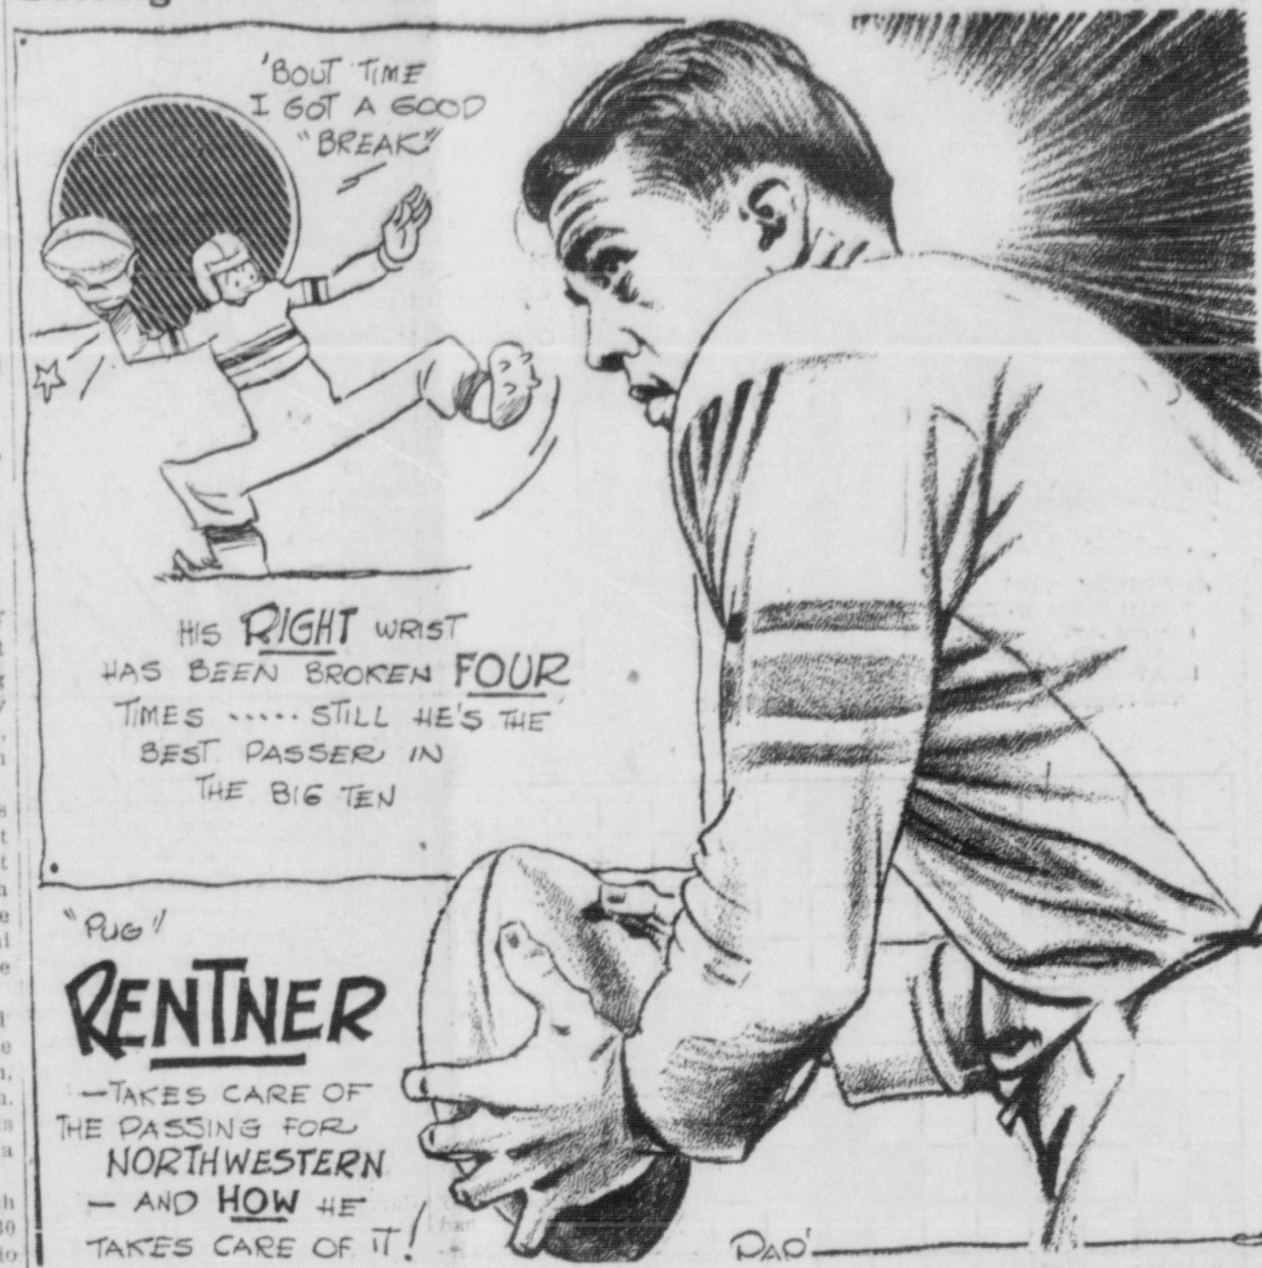

Now all that is needed is an inside court. Members of the team and fans of the sport are to meet Saturday evening at the present outdoor court back of the Y. M. C. A. to discuss this all-important question.

Tuesday night Hillsboro's tossers were crushed under a 814 to 428 score.

Getting The Breaks

WILLIE HESTON, JR., QUILTS MICHIGAN TEAM—TOO MUCH EXPECTED OF HIM HE HINTS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 20—(AP)—Willie Heston, Jr., who wishes sometimes his name were Smith, is said by his friends to have given up football.

Willie Heston has been a name to conjure with at Michigan since a stalwart of that name plunged his way into the headlines and on to Walter Camp's All-American football team a quarter of a century ago.

A lot of fans joined Willie, Sr., in hoping that Willie Jr., (they call him Bill) would carve the name anew on the football annals of this generation. Bill came to Michigan in 1929 after a much publicized prep school gridiron career.

Last year he played with the varsity, this year he was assigned to the "B" squad. When he didn't appear for practice this week, someone asked him why.

He said he needed the time for his studies. He expects to graduate in June.

His friends believe the responsibilities his name carried have ruined whatever changes he had to become a football star because coaches and fans expected too much of him.

"I play halfback, the same position dad played, but that's as far as the resemblance goes," he said, a few days ago. "When they gave me the ball they expect a touchdown every time, just because my name's Heston. It's great when the boys talk about dad and how great he was and ask how he used to make touchdowns, but it would be a lot easier if my name were Smith."

FRANK FRISCH

GETS BASEBALL HONOR

Cardinal Second Sacker Voted Most Valuable Player in League

BUT VOTE UNOFFICIAL

Chuck Klein Second and Bill Terry Third

New York, Oct. 21—(AP)—The National League's "most valuable player" for 1931 is Frankie Frisch, captain and second baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the world.

Frisch received 65 points out of a maximum of 80 in the vote of a committee of baseball writers to win the award by ten points from Chuck Klein, Phillies outfielder, with Bill Terry, first baseman of the New York Giants third with 53.

Officially the practice of naming annually the "most valuable player" was dropped in 1929. In 1930 Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs was selected by an unofficial poll conducted by the Associated Press and the Cubs recognized the award by handing Wilson the customary $1,000. This year the poll was conducted, unofficially again by the Baseball Writers' Association.

In the eight years that a most valuable player has been selected in the Heydler loop, St. Louis players have been adjudged the winners four times. Rogers Hornsby started the St. Louis parade in 1925 followed by Bob O'Farrell in 1926, Jim Bottomley in 1928 and Frisch this year. Dazzy Vance won the first award, in 1924, Paul Waner of the Cubs, in 1929 and Wilson last year.

Frisch has been a contender for the honor three previously. He finished third to Vance in 1924 as a member of the New York Giants second to Waner in 1927, and second to Wilson last year.

CAPTAIN MUST PROVE SELF
Dallas, Tex. —(AP)—The North Dallas high school football team will not choose a captain until the end of the season, when the outstanding player will be elected.

Capacity Crowd Expected at Ohio Stadium Saturday

Columbus, O., Oct. 21—(AP)—Defeating the co-champions of the Western Conference on successive Saturdays is no mean job, but that's the task confronting Ohio State as they prepare for the game with Northwestern here Saturday afternoon, which according to reports, will draw the largest crowd of the season to date.

But with the odds against them there is an air of confidence as coaches and players go about their work. They know Northwestern will be better than Michigan, but the Buckeyes believe they could have defeated a much stronger team last Saturday.

Most of this week will be spent on defensive work, although several new plays have been given out with which William hopes to combat the Wildcat's driving power.

Here's a Rah Rah For Work Horses

Chicago, Oct. 21—(AP)—Old Dobbin, who has been hauling those heavy wagons around the stock yards all these years, gets his chance to win some cheers on a real race track tomorrow.

As a feature of the Hawthorne charity card, a stockyards derby has been arranged with the field limited only to horses that work in the stockyards. There will be no mutants.

More than 15,000 spectators are expected to attend the charity day program, the proceeds of which will be turned over to the state unemployment fund.

SPORT SLANTS

ALAN GOULD
ASSOCIATED PRESS, SPORTS EDITOR
The old battery of Johnson and Street can't be kept apart. The first thing Walter and Gabby did on reaching Philadelphia during the world's series lull was get together in a hotel lobby and talk over the old days as well as the new.

It's their ambition some day to manage rival pennant clubs and match their stuff in a world's championship tussle. Street has now been in there two years in a row. Johnson is on the verge of piloting an American league winner, providing he can do something about dislodging the Athletics and Yankees.

For a time this year it looked as though Johnson's Washington Senators might come through, but they are not yet up to sustaining the pace that the A's have been setting.

These two old partners have had a lot in common. They had faced setbacks and disappointments with out being discouraged. Each has been at the top twice now. Johnson in 1924-25 and Street in 1930-31. Perhaps it will take another five years to bring them together for a battle of world's series wits. It will be worth waiting for.

INSIGHT ON COBB
Johnson and Street fell to reminiscing about Ty Cobb, a mutual rival in the old days, after they had agreed that the young Cardinal outfielder, Pepper Martin, displayed many of the fiery characteristics of the great Georgian.

"I never will forget that day Cobb tore into you coming home," laughed Johnson. "You had him on 20 feet, and there was a look of pained surprise when Ty lashed into you instead of taking the put out as most other base runners would have."

MICKEY TALKS OUT OF TURN
It was a slurring remark about the ability of the Cardinals as base runners by Mickey Cochrane that influenced Gabby Street, to turn his young base-running demon Martin, loose in the sensational second game of the big series.

"I read some stuff in the papers where Cochrane remarked about the Cards try to fool him on the bases or words to that effect," said Gabby.

"Mickey's a good fellow, and he may not have meant it that way, but it gave me an idea. The second game's events were such that I could twice give Martin the signal to steal, at critical moments and the youngster came through both times."

This seems to indicate another manacle to the practice of player-writing or ghost-writing. Sowing ideas for the benefit of the opposition hardly comes under the heading of gainful occupation.

'GET TWO' TRAYNOR

Talking about third basemen, Johnson and Street, still holding the floor, agreed there was none in the business at present to compare with Pie Traynor of the Pirates.

"Traynor for years has been the only third baseman to execute the rundown play perfectly between third and home so that there is a chance of catching a second base runner," said Johnson.

"He does it by following up the man trapped between third and home so closely that he can tag him out quickly and then fire the ball to another base."

"Our third baseman, Blago, can do it now, but he is the only American league third baseman who has perfected this play."

READ THIS FIRST:

Lois Corbin, a pretty working girl, falls in love with Bruce Durand, who is from one of the wealthiest families in Chicago. Ashamed to let him know where she lives, Lois leaves her family and goes to share an apartment with Arlene and Margaret, two girl friends. Bruce does not meet her to take her down to work, as he has promised, and Lois begins to know the first bitter disappointments of love. Lois worries are over, however, when Margaret stops at her desk and tells her that Bruce had to break his date with her on account of business. He comes to take her to lunch, and before he leaves he asks her to go out dancing with him on the following Saturday.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 8

BRUCE was waiting to take Lois home again that evening. It was a comforting feeling, coming out and finding someone waiting for one. It was the first time Lois ever had anyone care that much about her. That is, someone that she herself liked. "You'll have to take me home tonight," Lois said. "I have a lot of things that I want to do."

Bruce looked at her accusingly. "Sure they aren't any dates that you have?"

Lois said, "No, silly. Don't you think a girl ever has to take care of her clothes?"

Bruce said, "I suppose so. But why can't you do that after we've had dinner?"

Lois thought how nice it would be after she had moved in with Margaret and Arlene to have Bruce waiting to take her to dinner every night. No one to ask her where she had been, no one worrying about the lateness of the hour. She wished she were all moved now, but she wasn't.

"Well," Lois said, "maybe I can't do that tonight. But I really had planned to do lots tonight."

Bruce looked disappointed. "Guess I'll have to do as you say," he said. He turned the car into the north-bound traffic.

Lois looked at the buses now and the people riding on them with a little feeling of superiority. She felt as set up in her own estimation as did the ladies who passed her in their luxurious chauffeured limousines.

Bruce and Lois sat in front of the Bellaire a long time. It seemed as if they couldn't separate.

"I guess you don't realize how much I think of you," Bruce said. He held his head down a little bashfully and played with the big onyx ring that he wore on his left hand.

"I miss you all the time. I've never been this way about a girl before," Lois said.

Lois looked up at her. "Sometimes I don't think you believe me. The way you look at me," he said.

Lois thought: "If you only knew how I want to believe you, Bruce Durand. If you realized the truth. That it is the barrier that I feel between us that is keeping me from telling you right this minute how much I miss you. How much you mean to me."

She said, "Of course, I believe you, Bruce. Except, all men say the same thing, you know."

Bruce said, "I know. There isn't anything new about love. There isn't any new way of expressing it. You just have to feel it. And trust in it."

Lois said, "Well, then, you must trust me." She wanted him to trust her so much that she could deceive him for a while and then she wanted him to love her enough so that when he did find out about her family it would not matter to him.

Bruce had his hand firmly in his own. "I do trust you, Lois. I didn't mean that you had any date tonight. I guess I was only fooling. Except, I'm so jealous. I can't seem to think of your being with anyone else."

He said goodbye to her reluctantly and Lois got out and went upstairs. Margaret and Arlene were already home. They sat around for awhile and discussed everything about the office and about Bruce and about the new living arrangement.

"You've certainly got that boy

"You've certainly got the boy crazy about you."

crazy about you," Margaret said. "Arlene was curling her hair in front of the mirror. Lois could see her through the crack in the door."

"Margaret's been telling me what an Apollo he is. I'm dying to get a good look at him," Arlene said. "Is he coming down tonight?"

Lois said, "No. I told him I had things to do tonight. And I have. I'm going home and bring my things over."

Margaret said, "I'll help you if you want me to."

Lois thought that might not be a bad idea. It might do away with a lot of explanation. Her mother would not be so likely to remonstrate if there were another girl with her.

Luckily enough, Mrs. Corbin was over at a neighbor's apartment and Mr. Corbin was playing cards in the front room. He paid no attention to Lois except to notice that she came in and went upstairs. Hurriedly Lois threw her few clothes into her battered old suitcase and she and Margaret dashed down the stairs and into the street. Strangely enough, Lois had no feeling of regret as she left the dingy little neighborhood that always had been her home.

Anything she felt that she had been freed from chains of convention that had bound her very personality. She left a note on her dresser giving her address, but asking that no one come to try to get her to return home, that she had made her mind up to live with Arlene and Margaret—that nothing could change her mind. She hoped that her family would try to understand her attitude, that she believed she had a right to live her own life as she saw fit and that she did not feel as though she still owed them anything.

It was a cruel little note, and yet it was the way Lois felt about things. Margaret told her it was perfectly all right, that if her mother didn't understand it now she would some day.

Margaret helped Lois unpack her belongings and hang them in the closet. She cleaned out one of the untidy drawers of the chiffonier and told Lois that she could put her underwear and things like that in there. She also gave Lois one of the little glass shelves of the medicine cabinet.

"We keep our cosmetics and toothpaste any everything like that in here," she explained to Lois. Lois thought she was supposed to do likewise, although all she possessed was a box of powder and a rouge box which she carried in her purse with her lipstick.

"You'll be able to buy a lot of cute little things living here with us," Margaret remarked as she glanced over Lois' shabby array of dresses.

Lois said, "I hope so."

Margaret went breezily on, "If you want to wear anything that belongs to Arlene or to me, in the meantime you're more than welcome to it."

"Thanks a lot," Lois said. "I may want to do that." She was thinking about Saturday night.

"We mustn't take a chance on your losing Bruce on account of not having pretty enough clothes."

Lois wished Margaret would quit trying to make out as though she were deliberately going to "catch" Bruce Durand. It was true that she did care for him and if ever he asked her to marry him she would be the happiest person on earth, but she didn't want to feel as though she were angling for him.

It was late that night when the three of them got to bed. Lois and Margaret had to wait for Arlene to get through with her date, for she insisted on bringing him in for a few minutes. The few minutes lengthened themselves into hours, so that it was finally twelve o'clock before Lois could get into her makeshift bed.

The davenport was too short for her, as Margaret had said it would be. But also, as Margaret had said, it was better than nothing. She stretched out as much as was possible and lay there in the darkness thinking. Thinking about Bruce Durand, and what the outcome of their association would be.

Her neck hurt a little because she had to keep it in such an odd position. Her feet stuck out at the bottom, too, where the sheet flapped over the end of the davenport. It didn't matter so much now, in the summer time, but Lois thought it probably would be uncomfortable sleeping that way in the winter.

Lois thought of her own bed at home, of its crisp white sheets, its comfortable, feathery pillow, of waking in the night to feel her mother's gentle hand pulling up the coverlet over her when it became cool. She had a queer little feeling which would have developed into homesickness if she hadn't been so sleepy.
